Criminal Appeal No.461 of 2001

Hon'ble Irshad Hussain, J.

Heard the learned counsel for the appellant and the A.G.A.

This appeal against the acquittal has been preferred by the complainant. It is not maintainable. It has also been stated that two other persons were convicted but the complainant has entered into a compromise and those appeals against the conviction have been disposed of accordingly. In view thereof, there is no reason to convert this appeal into revision and the same is hereby dismissed.
